"I have observed the sharp, squared-off lines in furnishings now softening." With its curved profile, rounded corner, double-tier seat and sculptural back, the Cambria — perfect for floating in a room — was designed as a statement piece with boutique appeal. Shown in mohair, $12,330; $5,985 with customer's own material. TomlinsonCompanies.com.

"One of my favorite trends in lighting is the combination of brass and black. It is such an elegant combination, and the Trephine chandelier is just so sinuous and sexy — perfect for a smaller foyer or entryway. I think every room should have a touch of black." $1,810. CurreyandCompany.com.

Sylvester Fringe Swivel Tub Chair

"One of the biggest trends at the show was the statement chair: the perfect combination between upholstery and unexpected textures, creating a form of art that is different and unique. One example is the Sylvester Fringe Swivel Tub Chair, with its curvy form, playful functionality, fine leather seat, edgy brass base and fringe details. I can see it in a luxury bedroom, next to a curvy sofa or in a stylish living room next to a black marble fireplace." BradleyUSA.com (to the trade).
